A gentleman that came to town in good health, meeting with some friends, drank a great deal of new bottled oat-ale after feme pints of wine. These liquors fermented so violently in his stomach and intestines that he was taken, with a violent Colic the fame night. . In the morning; aji apothecary was sent for, who administered a, clyster, and took some ounces of blood; to relieve a great pain in. his left side. The patient growing worse, the Apothecary without order of any Physician gave him a violent vo mit, which operated eight or nine times. The patient died in a violent convulsion. Upon opening his body the abdominal muscles were found so contracted that it was almost impossible to penetrate them with a sharp scalpel. The stomach was empty. Some parts of the duodenum, the jejunum and ikon. were so much distended with the oat-ale, that the ikon was four inches, and the Colon eight inches diameter, the valves here were obliterated by the great distension. But the greateft pst disaster happened to the diaphragm. Tho foramen on the left side, through which the gula and par vagum pass was here dilated, and a portion of the colon, and the greatest part of the omentum and pancreas were forced through it into the thorax. The pancreatic vein was ruptured, which filled the left cavii...
