Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Forestry Manual of the Iowa State Horticultural Society Should be planted quite deeply - 18 inches or more - and then be well protected the first winter by being laid down and covered with earth, and if of tender varieties they should be protected every winter. The first year but one cane should be grown, the next not more than two, and the third a little fruit may be obtained. Plant in rows six to eight feet apart and train to trellis or stakes, vines four to eight feet in the row. A trellis may be made of three wires, the highest not more than four to five feet high, or stakes may be used from two to four inches in diameter. With the trellis you can cultivate or plow but one way, while with the stakes plowing may be done both ways. The pruning should be done in the fall, winter or spring, before the buds begin to swell. No definite rule can be given for pruning, but in doing it we should bear in mind that only the last year s growth produces fruit. A young or feeble vine should not have too much bearing-wood left on lest it overbear, while a strong and well-established vine may be more heavily taxed. Cultivation of the vines with the plow, cultivator, one-horse harrow or hoe should be begun as soon as the ground is in good condition to work in the spring, and it should be kept up until well into midsummer or later. Close pruning induces the growth of large berries and large bunches, while a superabundance of fruit-bearing wood tends to the production...
